

Montag, 3. April 2006

Umbrello UML ist auf Version 1.5.2 aktualisiert worden

In die aktuelle Version des UML Modellers sind etliche Bugfixes eingeflossen. Use horizontal and vertical lines when drawing association #67223) Import Rose model files (no diagrams yet, #81364) Automatically fill useful info into the Perl writer heading template Documentation for association roles not saved (#105661) Default data types not added for old Java generator (#115991) Problem reordering methods in classes/interfaces (#119991, Debian/348940) Problem with font size computation/word wrap in note widgets Custom operations in sequence diagrams become class operations (#120337) Fork/join symbol appears as a black box (#120455) Multiplicity labels positioned incorrectly when moving entities (#120598) Types of entity's attributes are displayed instead of their names (#120742) Unable to delete entity from entity list in "UML Model" frame (#120750) Interface names not italicized in diagram view (#120761) Cannot Resize Sequence Diagram Synchronous Messages (#120910) Sequence diagram: constructor message only works at 100 percent zoom (#121238) Documentation for associations is not retained (#121478, #122063) Crash when importing Python files (#121952) "void" is imported as a class (#122184) Crash when creating a datatype with the same name as a class (#122188) Crash when a non existing data type is used for an argument of a new method (#122497) Drag'n'drop doesn't put class under mouse cursor when zoom is not 1:1 (#122293) Crash when refusing to rename a class on importing typedef (#122914) Java import fails at abstract methods or interfaces (#123661) Umbrello ist hier erhältlich.

Geschrieben von in PHP, Linux um 12:35